Dedication

This book is dedicated to Arnold PHIPPS and Kathryn MAURER Phipps. Without their years of painstaking research, this book would not have been possible.

They traveled many miles, searched through dusty archives, and took copious notes. They did this without the benefit of computers or the internet which aids us today. When I started committing our family history to computer data files, they generously gave me access to everything they had collected.

I only regret that Uncle Arnold did not live to see this document.

Introduction

The first of our ancestors to arrive on the North American continent came from Siberia by way of the narrow strip of land that is now the Bering Straits. They came chasing the rich animal life, woolly mammoths, and other animals. They would resemble those peoples who now live in northern China and Mongolia. We have no idea of who they were.

Through the centuries their children gradually moved south and east and eventually arrived in the Appalachian mountains and the Piedmont areas of Virginia. By the time they arrived there, they knew themselves as Cherokees.

Not long after they arrived in that fair land, stirrings began in another part of the world we now call the British Isles. The Littles from the border region of Scotland, the Nickells who had migrated from Scotland to Northern Ireland, the Phipps from northern England and the Hursts from near London all began a trek to the new world. Other ancestors with other names from Ireland, Scotland, Wales and England embarked on frail sailing craft and headed west. They came for religious freedom, flight from criminal prosecution, economic opportunity, political developments and adventure.

Eventually, these people from Britain and Mongolia met. Sometimes they fought and sometimes they married and had children. Our ancestors came from opposite sides of the globe. We are the stuff of both worlds.

These families married and grew in size. Space became scarce and some of them moved across the Appalachian Mountains to the foothills of Floyd County, Kentucky. Floyd County was divided into a number of smaller counties. Three of these counties were Menifee, Morgan and Wolfe. Our ancestors came to settle in the hardscrabble hills where the borders of these three counties came together.

Soon, as these growing families became too large for the limited resources of the area. Some of them began moving west and north, looking for jobs and land to farm. This brought our family to Ohio.

This is the story of our family. It records their ancestors and descendants. This document is by no means complete. It is only a snapshot of the data we have at this moment in time. It will continue to change. However, the recent discoveries and reuniting of known and unknown members of our family made this the right time to publish this document.

We have found one another again. The story of finding each other is remarkable and I have had the assistance of Jean Urban and Alice Marie FOURMAN Martin in telling the story of how this all happened. (See these stories on pages 94ff.)

Some records are extensive and others are sketchy. I have done my best to get as complete a record as possible. However, I had to draw a line, stop the data gathering and publish. If I had not, this document would never have happened.

Even as this is printed, the record keeps changing and I appreciate all of your help to correct and add to what is printed here.

In the year 2000, the first member of the sixth generation of descendants of George and his two wives appeared on the scene. In time, cousins will become more distant and memories dim. Stories of the days in Kentucky will no longer be told to children gathered at their grandparents' knee.

Sunday afternoon dinners, where cousins played and aunts and uncles visited, will no longer be remembered. The Phipps reunion will eventually disappear as future generations focus more on their growing families in more immediate generations.

For these reasons, I thought it fitting to make this record. I can only hope that this book will make its way onto the shelves of various branches of the family. Perhaps, after most of us are forgotten, some of our descendants will find this and learn from whence they came. It may prompt some of them to document their own families and add to the story.

I have included the ancestral record of George Harvey PHIPPS, Alice LOVELACE Phipps and Lenora Alice LITTLE Phipps. I have also added the record one of George's in-laws, Lillie GOAD Phipps. I have added her because she is the only wife who came from the Morgan County foothills.

What is missing is family stories. They are lost between the cracks of the facts recorded here. I have dreamed of a Phipps newsletter where some of these anecdotes could be recorded. Maybe some reader might feel the call to take up that agenda. If you do, you will find a willing assistant in this writer.

Acknowledgments

In the dedication, I have already mentioned the work of Uncle Arnold PHIPPS and Aunt Kathryn MAURER Phipps. I also recognize that many of you have helped with this project. I have tried faithfully to document all of your contributions which you will find in the Endnotes.

I do want to thank five persons who accepted my request for help. They were:

Ronald PHIPPS (Estill)

Alice Marie FOURMAN Martin (Eunice)

David PHIPPS (Willard)

Jean SCUMACHER Urban (Margaret, Russell) (nee Nancy Jean HARRIS)

Linda BRYANT Middleton (Margaret, Russell)

These persons encouraged, advised, collected data, and contributed written material. Without their support I might well have abandoned the project.

Explanations

Ahnentafel Records.

Printing records of ancestry presents a special problem. There are essentially two methods, pedigrees and ahnentafel lists.

In the case of each of our ancestors, I have chosen to print both the pedigree, and the ahnentafel format. Each has benefits. Referring to each format will aid in understanding of each person's ancestors.

Ahnentafel number was invented by a German mathematician. Each generation has a series of numbers assigned to it. The first person has the number 1. The second generation has 2 and 3. The third generation has 4,5,6 & 7.

To find a person's father on the list multiply their assigned number by 2 (in bold). To find the person's mother, multiply their number by 2 and add 1. Thus, George Phipps is number 1. His father is 2 (1×2) and his mother is 3 ($1 \times 2 + 1$). This is not as complicated as it sounds. With these calculations you can find any known father and mother of any person on the list.

Family History Centers of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Because of their unique theology, the Mormons have collected large volumes of archives of family history. Teams travel the world microfilming civil and religious records which are carefully preserved inside a mountain in Utah.

They have compiled many of these records in digital form and they are now available to all of us on the Internet. If you do not have access to a computer, you may also obtain these records by visiting a Family History Center near you. They are free for anyone to use. (There is a small charge for microfilms that are ordered and sent from Utah to the local center for viewing and copying.)

You will see the URL locations (web address) for these sites in the Endnotes.

Ancestry File Number

The Ancestry File Number is the index for locating a person's record in the records of the Family History Center of the LDS Church mentioned above. You can access their web site and insert this number to look up the material they have in their archives. Not all AFN numbers have been listed, but only those to provide benchmarks for further research.

The Internet.

The Internet combined with the Freedom of Information Act has increased the productivity and success rate of family research dramatically. The Endnotes contain few of the sources that are available. Most of them are free.

Global Positioning System.

In the text you will notice numbers such as: N39 57.903 W84 24.919 This is the longitudinal and latitudinal location of a specific site. In this case, it is the grave site of George Harvey PHIPPS. Global positioning is done by accessing 24 satellites of the US Department of Defense circling the globe. A small handheld device gives the location. These numbers in a similar device will lead a person to within 15-20 feet of the location. This data have been included to make it easier for persons to locate these sites. In some cases the data represents an estimate gathered from maps. However, the deviation should be no more than 200 feet.

[sic]

You may notice a number of errors in newspaper obituaries. These have been reproduced as they were printed in the paper using the [sic] to designate that this as a known error.

Names

I have used the known birth names and, with rare exceptions, there are no married names. This is a conventional naming technique for family histories, and saves confusion.

Where I know the birth name of an adoptee, I have made the birth name primary, placed the adopted name in parentheses, and recorded the change of name in the record. Both names appear in the index. When the birth name of an adoptee is unknown, the adopted name is used as the primary name.

^AElizabeth Church is the daughter of Benjamin Church and Alice Southworth. The ancestors of both Benjamin and Alice can be traced back to all of the royal families of Europe which includes such notables as Duncan who was made famous by Shakespeare as the victim of Macbeth's sword, Charlemagne and King Louis of France. At the famous battle of Hastings in southern England (1066), William the Conqueror defeated Harold, King of England, becoming the new king of England. Both Harold and William are ancestors of Elizabeth Church.

He was listed on the militia lists of Montgomery County, Virginia, in 1778-1781. He was in the companies of Captains Jonathan Isom and William Bobbett. Abraham moved to Tennessee sometime after 1802 and settled at the foot of Black Oak Ridge at Fountain Head (now Fountain City). Several members of his family came with him. After six or seven years, he moved to the western part of Campbell County on the New River on what is known as Vanderpool farm about one mile from Huntsville. Joshua came with him as did his sons-in-law, 'Robin' Phillips and Thomas Lawson. The country was unbroken forest and abounded with game. His son, Joshua, is recorded as reporting 'more deer than hogs and sheep now.' When Abraham died, he was buried on his farm. His family graveyard is considered the oldest in the county.

Family of George Harvey PHIPPS (First Generation)

Generation One

1. George Harvey PHIPPS;^{1,2,3,4} b. 14 Dec 1874 Morgan Co, Kentucky;^{1,2} m. Alice A Lovelace, daughter of Samuel Lovelace and Louisa Tutt, 1894;⁵ m. Lenora Alice Little, daughter of Peter Everett Little and Flotilla Hill, 11 May 1902 Wolfe Co, Kentucky;¹ d. 28 Feb 1928 Monroe Twp, Darke Co, Ohio, at age 53;^A Buried: Potsdam, Miami Co, Ohio, N39 57.903 W84 24.919.^{1,2}

Employed: Yale Lumber Company, Menifee Co, Kentucky, N38 2.8 W83 29.9, Lumberman and farmer.^{1,2} Residence: circa 1906 Homestead, Pomeroyton, Menifee Co, Kentucky, N37 50.985 W083 31.283.^B Ethel PHIPPS Kreider recalls that in the midst of much anxiety about the appearance of Halley's Comet, she was reassured by her father, George. He took her out to a hillside to see the comet and explained what it was.

He and Lenora Alice Little appeared on the census of 1910 Menifee Co, Kentucky. George played the violin, Jews harp and French harp. He became the brother-in-law of Smith Little on three different occasions. First they married Lovelace sisters. After the sisters' deaths, George married Alice Little, Smith's sister and Smith married Callie Phipps, George's sister. The two played for dances in the area.

George worked for Yale Lumber Company near Salt Lick, Kentucky. He also worked as a blacksmith, ran his own sawmill and farmed.^{1,2,3} George signed a note for a relative and the relative defaulted on the note which resulted in his loss of the farm. This was not settled until sometime after the family had moved to Ohio. Although the bank in Kentucky said that she no longer had any liability, George's widow, Alice LITTLE Phipps, sent money from the meager farm earnings until every penny was paid.

In 1926, George went to Middletown, Ohio, to look for a farm. He stayed with his bother-in-law, Lithford Thomas LOVELACE, the brother of his first wife, Alice LOVELACE. He found and rented a farm in Butler County. However, he was unable to sell his saw mill and the deal fell through.

In the spring of 1927, he and his son, Willard, were planting corn and he told Willard that when the corn was planted he was going to Ohio to find a place to move his family. He went to Dayton, Ohio, and worked for a contractor who was digging basements for a new housing development.

The contractor asked George to go with him to the countryside to buy some eggs and he went to the home of Peck Strawser. The contractor, knowing of George's interest, asked if he knew of a farm to rent and Peck made him aware of the Black farm. George rented the Black Farm and wrote a letter to his wife telling her to get ready to make sale and move to Ohio. By the time he returned to Kentucky, the family had arranged for the sale and was packed for the trip north. He and Lenora Alice Little

To my children when I am gone.

May God bless you and keep you in his will. I love all my fine family very much. Hope you will not grieve for me. I will with my blessed Lord & Savior. Be good kind to each other. Willards all have been so good to me. Don't forget Wayne. He suffered so much when little. He can't help like he is. Be good to Leonard & Eunice for giving Wayne a home.

The pay been small for the care it takes. The land in Ky is for to bury Wayne and a small stone. Take turns keeping tax up. Be sure tax is always paid. Dad's big picture, if Willard wants it, he should have it. If not, Ethel is to get it. Hang it with the old pictures. Willard some pictures off it. They are his. Try to keep in touch with one another. Put me away plain. God bless you. I love everyone. All been good to me, children, in-laws, grandchildren and great grandchildren. I hope to meet all in heaven. My best [wishes] to all. Lots love from a mother and grandmother, great grandmother. -Alice Phipps [unsigned].

A Tribute^C

We remember Dad as being a hard worker who always gave his best. He was our instructor who taught not only by precept but more importantly by example. He taught us, his sons, something about respect and something about love-for our God, our wives, our children and for other people.

He taught us about integrity and about faith. And more than he will ever have known here, he taught us about practical theology-about application of what we know to be true.

*Dad was a giver. Many of you remember that over a period of thirteen years some thirty-three foster children resided in the home of my parents. He gave in other ways. He taught in Sunday school and prayed very diligently for some of you who are here today.
Roger Phipps.*

He appeared on the census of 1910 Menifee Co, Kentucky.^D

New Carlisle, Ohio area. Membership: 1946 Missionary Church, New Carlisle, Clark Co, Ohio.¹
Retired: in 1978 City of New Carlisle, Clark Co, Ohio. Last known residence: New Carlisle, Clark Co, Ohio.

Estill had a hard life in many ways. As a boy, he was kicked in the face by a mule, shattering his jaw and knocking out his teeth. As a young man, he lost two fingers and severely mangled a thumb in a corn-husking accident. As an adult, he had a bout with blood poisoning. He and his sisters worked to support the family after their father died. Through all of these difficulties he maintained a sense of humor.

Once when a cow had died, he tried to call the tankage company to come and pick up the carcass. However, they were on a party line and a neighbor was talking. After trying over what he considered to be a rather long time, he interrupted by saying, "I hate to interrupt but we have had a death and I need to use the phone." They promptly hung up and he made the call.

Estill was known to fall asleep in church from time to time. After one such occasion, as he was leaving the service he said to the pastor, "Pastor, I just want you to know that I trusted you and your sermon so much, I felt comfortable sleeping." - Ron Phipps.

Searching for our Lost families

Finding My Lost Brothers and Sisters

by

Jean Ann SCHUMACHER Urban (nee Nancy Jean Harris)

On July 16, 1938, Margaret "Peg" Alberta PHIPPS (Russell H, George) married James H. HARRIS in Covington, Kentucky. She was 18 years old. Peg and Jim had six children.^A

In 1948 the marriage broke up and all six children were placed in the St. Clair Springs Children's Home in Eaton, Ohio. By the Fall of 1948, all six of us had been placed with adoptive parents and moved to our new homes in different towns in southwest Ohio.

A family from Eaton, Ohio adopted Bill. A family from Brookville, Ohio adopted Susan. A family from Dayton, Ohio adopted Nancy (name changed to Jean) and Rebecca (name changed to Janet). A family from Greenville, Ohio adopted Patricia (name changed to Karen). A family from Carlisle adopted James (name changed to Sam).

Other than Janet and me, we never saw each other again for more than fifty years.

Janet and I grew up in Dayton, Ohio, with our adoptive parents, George and Helen SCHUMACHER. I was married in 1960 to John URBAN and moved to Cleveland where our first two children, Scott and Geoff, were born.^B In 1963 my mother died. In 1965, my father became ill and we moved to Dayton to help take care of his interests. My father died three months after we moved and we decided to stay in Dayton. Our third child, Christopher, was born in Dayton.

Janet also married in 1960 and moved to Oxford, Ohio. In 1962 she moved to Cleveland where she and her husband, Vincent O'Brien, had three children.^C

I spent many years wondering what had happened to my sisters and brothers. In the early 1970's my friend, Linda Evans, and I made a trip to the small town of Camden in Preble County, Ohio. I remembered living in Camden as a very young child. We went to find information that would help me identify and locate my siblings. We checked old newspapers around the time that I thought I went to the orphanage. Linda and I found nothing in Camden to help with my search.

We proceeded to Eaton, Ohio, where the St. Clair Springs Children's Home was located. First we searched old issues of the local newspaper for any stories about six children that were taken to a county orphanage. We found nothing. We then decided to try the Eaton Public Library. When we entered the library, we explained our mission to a young lady that seemed to be in charge. She could offer us no help. She did suggest that we wait for the head librarian to return from lunch. She had lived in Eaton forever and knew everybody in town.

The head librarian returned and told us that she could not remember anything regarding my family but perhaps a lady that was browsing in the library could help us. She had adopted at least one child from the Eaton Orphanage. The lady, Pauline Kaufman, told me she had adopted a boy, William Roy Kaufman, from the orphanage. He was nine years old and she recalled that he had come from a large family.

She also recalled that Malcomb Clear, who was the man in charge of the orphanage, had brought one of Bill's younger sisters by the house to say a good-bye because they were taking Susan to a family in Illinois, possibly Chicago. I remembered that one of my siblings was named Susan. That was all the information she could give us. She said she would tell her son about our conversation. I gave her my name, address and telephone number. I wrote her son's name down on the back of a Preble County telephone book. Driving back to my home in Centerville, Ohio, I told Linda I would wait to hear from Mrs. Kaufman or her son. When I did not hear from him or his mother, I assumed that he was not related or he was not interested in any kind of reunion. I was disappointed that my first lead to finding my siblings ended with no resolution.

My family and I moved to Florida in 1977. I had three active children and a job. I had to put the search on the back burner but thoughts of finding my siblings were always in my mind. Being so far away from Ohio made it very difficult to do research. I had no idea where to begin again.

In February of 1998, I bought a computer and went on line. After wasting hours surfing the web and finding no leads or help, I found a chat room on AOL that consisted of adopted people, birth parents and adoptive parents. I never imagined that there were so many people who were searching for their birth relatives and their heritage. After several days of watching how the chat room worked, I decided to participate and made inquiries.

The first bit of important information revealed that in 1996 the state of Ohio passed a statute allowing adopted people more than 21 and adopted before 1964 to apply for a copy of their original birth certificate. I had never seen that document although I was very sure that I remembered my birth name as Nancy Ann Harris.

The birth certificate filled in several blanks about my birth and my birth family. First my name was not Nancy Ann HARRIS but Nancy Jean HARRIS. I also found the full names of my birth parents. My father's name was James Henry Harris and my birth mother's maiden name, Margaret Alberta Phipps. I also learned their ages, the time of day that I was born and that I was the third child of the marriage.

After several months of participation in the chat room, a person offered some help. I told her about my encounter with Pauline Kaufman and explained that I wasn't sure of the spelling of the last name but I did know that her adopted son's name was William Roy Hoffman, Coffman or Kauffman. I told her that I thought he was probably born about 1938 or 1939. Mrs. Kaufman told me he was nine years old when they adopted him.

A few minutes later she emailed me the birth dates and the addresses of four people with the name William R. Kaufman born in 1938 or 1939 and now living in Ohio. One lived in Eaton, Ohio. I immediately composed a letter and mailed it to the William R. Kaufman who lived in Eaton, Ohio. I mailed the letter the following morning. The letter included as much information as I had and ended with a request that he write or call.

I didn't know if I would get a response. After so many years of wondering what happened to my birth family, I was not going to get my hopes up that I would hear from William R. Kaufman.

To my amazement and delight, within two days, I received a telephone call from William Roy Kaufman. We talked hours that night and neither of us had any doubt that we were brother and sister. After many hours of telephone conversations and letters and plans of meeting, Bill and I seemed to close the 50-year gap in our lives.

On December 10, 1998, Bill and his wife, Loleida, flew to Sarasota, Florida. We spent three days talking, looking at old pictures and getting acquainted. Bill and Loleida met some of my friends who were nearly as excited about our reunion as I was. My children were also excited to meet this new uncle from their mother's side of the family. When I saw them off at the airport, I was already looking forward to seeing them again. That visit came when I drove to Ohio to celebrate Bill's 60th birthday.[^]

As soon as Bill and I first talked on the phone we started discussing how we were going to find the other children. Loleida was totally supportive of our efforts. She put in as much time and effort as Bill and I. Bill sent for his birth certificate and that confirmed that he was the oldest child.

As soon as Bill got his computer up and running we were in constant communication. One person in the chat room suggested that we go to the courthouse in Eaton and obtain a copy of our birth parents divorce papers. Loleida spent her lunch hour in the courthouse. Fortunately, the divorce took place in Preble County and Loleida came up with the papers. The papers listed the names and ages of all six of us but no birth dates. They also mentioned a seventh child that remained with our birth mother after the divorce.

Bill and I were both born in Middletown, Ohio. Because our parents were very young, we thought that we might find pictures of them in the Middletown High School yearbooks. Bill and Loleida hit pay dirt and located pictures of James HARRIS. They also found a picture of a girl named Jean HARRIS who turned out to be our birth father's sister. Bill and Loleida managed to locate Jean Harris Garitson living in Middletown, Ohio.

Aunt Jean supplied pictures of our birth parents and the birth dates of all of our siblings plus the name and location of one of our birth mother's cousins. Nola Snyder was raised with our birth mother and also filled in more details. Nola also notified the seventh child that was mentioned in the divorce papers about our existence. Linda BRYANT Sandolo is one of six half-siblings from our birth mother's second husband.

Armed with this new information, I emailed the lady that had supplied me with Bill's name and address. She made a trip to Columbus, Ohio and found the state Birth Index for children born on the dates of two of our siblings. With the names on these lists, I located our youngest brother, Sam EARNHART (James), after writing letters to five different names from the birth index.

After receiving my letter, Sam called me from Ohio. I was not at home when he called and returned his call very early the next morning. Bill and Loleida drove to Franklin, Ohio, to meet Sam and his wife, Sharon. I was not in Ohio for that reunion but received pictures and phone calls to fill me in on all the latest including more nieces and nephews.^A

The next person we found was our sister, Karen STAFFORD (Patricia). Bill and Loleida picked Karen King from the birth index list because her amended birth certificate number was one digit different from his. They located her after a stroke of luck. They visited the library and found a box of marriage records that normally wouldn't have been in the library. They found Karen KING's marriage license record.

Several phone calls from one side of the country to the other resulted in leads to old friends that thought she lived in Vanceburg, Kentucky but didn't know her last name. Using the Internet and more phone calls, Karen was found. Bill, Loleida, Sam and Sharon made the drive to Vanceburg to meet her and her husband, Butch. Again, I was not at this reunion but received phone calls and pictures.^B

We were now left with finding the whereabouts of the sixth sibling. Bill and I remembered that her name was Susan. Nola, Aunt Jean and the divorce records confirmed that. But that was all we had to go on. My friend could not find Susan on a birth index and just for the heck of it Loleida checked the health department in Middletown. Susan's original birth certificate was still on file in Middletown. Adopted children's birth certificates are normally sent to Columbus and sealed. Early in the search, it never occurred to me to go to the health department and look for any of our birth certificates since it was a state statute that they are sealed in Columbus.

Since hers was still a public record, I assumed that she was never adopted. We later found out that most of our birth certificates had not been sealed. In the meantime, I was really angry. I thought she had not been adopted. I thought she had never had a home but had to grow up in the state system.

Believing that she was never adopted, I wasted hours writing and phoning too many Susan L. Harris that I located from numerous places on the Internet.

I received a list of names with the same birthday as our Susan from a lady in the chat room. There was about thirty names on it. In the meantime Karen had purchased a list of names from a search organization. There were twenty-two names on that list. Karen took the first half of the list and I took the second half. I wrote five letters and again luck was on our side. Our sister Susan Osswald (Susan Lavon) received one of the letters. I later realized that I had her name from the chat room list that I was going to use if none of Karen's list panned out.

Sam, Sharon, Bill and Loleida drove to Brookville, Ohio to meet Susan and her husband, Mark OSSWALD. All of their four children came over to meet their new aunts and uncles. This was by far the largest of the initial reunions.^A

After talking to Aunt Jean and Nola, we learned that both of our birth parents had remarried after their divorce. Each of them had six more children with their second spouses.

After the months of searching we had our "First Annual Reunion" of the HARRIS children on Memorial Day weekend, 1999. The party was held at Susan's house in Brookville. Bill grilled chicken, burgers and hotdogs and everyone brought side dishes and desserts. There was enough food for an army. There were children from toddlers to teens, in-laws, parents, aunts, cousins, fiancés, Linda and the best of all, Bill, Susan, Sam, Karen and Jean were a family again.

On Monday the newspaper published an article about the reunion. Alice Marie FOURMAN Martin saw the article and contacted us by telephone. Alice is the daughter of our great-aunt, Eunice PHIPPS Fourman^B. Aunt Eunice and Alice came to Susan's house on Monday morning and brought us pictures of our birth mother's family and stories about the Phipps family.

The Second Annual Reunion was as much fun as the first. It was held on Memorial Day weekend, 2000, at Susan's house. That year, our half-brother Mike Harris attended with his wife Judy and one of his two sons.

Sadly, Aunt Jean and Nola have passed away since we first got together. They are missed and thought of often.

The Third Annual Reunion, also held on Memorial Day weekend, 2001 was again a huge success in spite of some nasty Ohio weather. It was chilly and windy, but most of the rain held off and a good time was had by all.

We now have more family than we ever dreamed. Soon we hope to meet our uncle, Russell W. Phipps. Russell is the son of our grandfather on our birth mother's side of the family. When our grandmother died after giving birth to our mother and the baby was taken to her mother's relatives, our grandfather moved away from the area. None of the family has ever met our grandfather's son or any of his children.

Every day I thank God for my brothers and sisters and their families. It will never cease to amaze me that I could feel so connected to all of them after so many years apart. We were all fortunate that there were people, Malcolm and Nadine Clear, that saw to it that we were placed in good homes. I sometimes think about all of the years that we missed with each other but I am very grateful and happy that we have been brought together again. The past is just that, the past. I look forward to our future years as a family.

Finding My Lost Cousins

by

Alice Marie FOURMAN Martin

I remember going with Mom to Peg and Jim's house in Camden, Ohio. Mom would take garden produce, canned goods and meat when we butchered. Bill, Susan, Harold and I would play. Bill and I were the same age. Susan and I were best buddies. They would come to our house south of Arcanum. Nancy (Jean) would come also but she was younger.

One day, Peg came and told Mom that she was divorcing Jim. Their six kids had been taken away and put in the Eaton Orphanage. Mom went to the Orphanage and begged them there to let her have the kids. By the time Mom found out about it, the records were sealed and they would tell her nothing.

Peg and Aubrey Bryant married and first lived outside of West Milton in a mobile home. Later, they moved to Fairborn, Ohio. Shortly before she died, she confided in Mom that she would give anything to have seen. After Peg died, we lost track of the Bryant Children.

Mom had a tablet with their birthdays full names and other information. She said she would give anything to see them again before she died. We were planning an 80th birthday for Mom. I knew where the pad was. I took down all the information she had and I wrote to Unsolved Mysteries asking their help in finding both families. I went to Eaton and put a letter in the local paper with Mom's name. Unsolved Mysteries wrote back that they were not interested in doing more lost family stories. No one ever answered the letter in the Eaton paper.

I remember Mom getting out her pictures of Russell and talking about him. She had heard that he had gone to Texas. She wrote a letter to an address that she had. It was never returned but there was no answer.

Memorial Day, 1999, I was having a cup of coffee and reading the Dayton Paper. There was a picture of a group of siblings that had found each other after 50 years. All of a sudden I started crying. Merrill looked at me and asked, "What on earth is the matter with you?" I told him these were the cousins that we had tried to find for so many years. They were having a reunion that weekend. The paper didn't say where.

I called Mom and asked if she was setting down. Between tears I read her the article and she was sobbing. I told her to get ready. I was going to do my best to locate where the reunion had taken place and I would take her no matter how far I had to drive.

I started out by calling the number of the reporter that was in the paper. It was busy and I finally got through. It was a wrong number. I called the Customer Service Line of the paper, knowing it was a holiday, I explained to the lady what had transpired and why I was trying to reach the reporter. She was kind enough to give me the correct number. I called and left a message to call me ASAP.

The article said that several of the kids were in from another state. I had no way of knowing when they were going home. I called the Customer Service Line again and they gave me her pager number. I started paging her every 15 minutes. After an hour, she called me. I explained to her what I wanted. She said that she had the phone number but she couldn't give it to me. However, she would call it and tell them about me and give them my number.

After 30 minutes, the phone rang. A lady asked for Eunice Fourman. Susan wanted to know about Mom. I told her that no matter how far I had to drive that day, I would bring Mom to see them. She said that Jean/Nancy was there with her and she had already called Bill, Sam and Karen and they were on their way there, but that Linda had gone back to Pennsylvania. She gave me the directions to her home near Brookville. I called Mom and told her I was on my way to get her. She cried all the way there and kept saying how this was an answer to prayer. She had pictures and things she was taking to them. We were there for four hours and had a wonderful time.

Susan visits mom every week and the rest of the children do visit as they have a chance.

Mom says that finding these lost nieces and nephews is an answer to prayer.

Finding My Lost Uncle

by
Lee Kreider

As Paul Harvey says, "Now, for the rest of the story."

The children of George Harvey Phipps' second family had pondered their missing relatives that included the family of Margaret PHIPPS and her father, Russell.

Russell H Phipps was the only child of George's first marriage to Alice LOVELACE. Russell was born in 1895 in Menifee County Kentucky. Alice died in child birth and Russell was raised by his great-uncle, Abraham Phipps. George married Alice LITTLE Phipps and I am a grandson of this second family.

The children of this second family had some sketchy memories of Russell. My mother (eight years younger) recalls visiting her half-brother with her father. They traveled by horseback. She remembers playing with Russell along a creek. Uncle Willard remembers seeing Russell in uniform (World War I). Russell showed his younger half-brother how to use fireworks. There was a photo of Russell in uniform with his first wife, Lillian Goad.

Russell moved to Middletown, Ohio, where he had other Lovelace relatives and where the steel mills attracted many from Kentucky. We knew that he had a daughter, Margaret (b.1920), and that his wife died soon thereafter. (We now know that it was also in childbirth.) He then disappeared from our view.

In 1926, George's second family moved to Ohio, locating just north of Dayton. George died the following winter.

The second PHIPPS family had frequent Sunday dinners following church.^A These dinners were often at the home of Grandma Phipps (Alice LITTLE Phipps) until she broke up housekeeping. Then the dinners moved from one sibling's home to another. I recall Margaret coming to some of those events. However, in time, we lost track of her and her family. Linda BRYANT Sandolo recalls that her dad, Aubrey Bryant, brought her to Grandma Alice LITTLE Phipps viewing. Margaret had died in 1968-Grandma in 1969.

For years, my Uncle Arnold PHIPPS and Aunt Kathryn MAURER Phipps had researched and archived the record of the Little and Phipps Family. They kept careful records of births, marriages and deaths as well as looking for ancestors. They went to Camden and found photos of the Harris Children and had reconstructed all of the names of both the Harris and Bryant children. I reflect on the irony of Jean's story. Arnold and Kathryn knew all of their names. As I began computerizing their work, I had their names all listed in my data base.

^AThe family church was known at that time as the Potsdam Mennonite Brethren in Christ. Later the name was changed to United Missionary Church and after a merger is now known as The Missionary Church.

Aunt Eunice PHIPPS Fourman and her daughter, my first cousin, Alice Marie FOURMAN Martin, had also spent time trying to find any information on Russell. They had made many efforts to find out what happened to Margaret and Margaret's children. Aunt Eunice had been especially close to Margaret's family.

Doing family history resembles working on a jigsaw puzzle. However, some of the pieces are missing, pieces from other puzzles have been tossed onto the board and many remaining pieces are scattered from coast to coast. If we had known only known about the pieces that each of the searchers had, this quest would have concluded years before.

Over the years, perhaps fifty, Arnold and Kathryn searched for any information on Russell Phipps and what might have happened to him. In their extensive travels, they searched phone books for any sign of him. There was a rumor that he had gone to Texas. Another man they met in Bellefontaine, Ohio said that he had known him. The trail grew cold and hope dimmed.

From time to time, I did searches on the Internet to see if I could find any thing about Russell. The only Russell Phipps that ever showed up on the Internet was a man who raised racing pigeons in North Carolina. I recall reading about pigeons and pigeon racing. I found it interesting but considered it no real help.

It was not until the now famous reunion of the Harris Children in 1999 and my meeting with my new found cousin, Jean Urban, at the Phipps Picnic that Fall, that my interest was reawakened. At that picnic I discovered that Jean had already done some searching for her grandfather and my Uncle Russell. What could have happened to him?

We conjectured that since he was only 25 years of age at the time we lost track of him, he might well have remarried and there was even more family to discover. I left that picnic with a new resolve to find something about Russell and a new partner in the search, Jean Urban. (Uncle Arnold had died in 1994.)

Jean found Russell's death record in the Social Security records that are now available on the Internet. She had written for his Social Security application and death certificate. The record on the Internet indicated that at the time of his death (1976) and he resided in Willoughby, Lake County, Ohio at the time of his death.

When Jean received his Social Security application it showed that he applied for a Social Security card in Crystal, Michigan, in 1936. It listed George H Phipps and Alice Lovelace as his parents but mysteriously had his birth year as 1896 rather than 1895 and birth location as Middletown, Ohio. We also had his Social Security number.

The wait for a death certificate became interminable. Nothing was heard for months and months. I made a call to the Lake County Heath Department and they had no record of such a death. I did learn that death certificates are filed in the county of death and since Willoughby was located near to Cleveland, the death record might well be in Cuyahoga County.

During all of this Jean and I were exchanging email and instant messages as well as searching the Internet everywhere we could. We would speculate where to go with our searches and divide up avenues of exploration. Each of us would scout about and report our results.

Again, we were so close and yet so far. Jean's search of the Internet had turned up a phone number for a Russell W. Phipps in Hendersonville North Carolina. (I remembered but didn't mention to Jean that this was probably the same Russell who raised pigeons.) I talked her out of calling this Russell. I knew that the Colonial Virginia Phipps family had migrated all along the Blue Ridge Mountains and I surmised (wrongly) that this Russell was from one of these earlier families.

Another interesting close call came from Jean's sister, Patricia KING Stafford, who lived in Vanceburg, Kentucky. She kept telling us that her brother-in-law, who lived in Willoughby, knew a Russell Phipps and that their children played together. We started pursuing this, but before this produced any results other discoveries began to happen. (It turns out that this is the Russell, or the son of Russell, for whom we searched.)

My next move was to call the Cuyahoga Board of Health. Before I got to that, Jean reported that the check she had sent many months ago for the death certificate had been cashed. "Does this mean anything?" she asked. It turned out that it did. Her request had been forwarded to the Ohio Department of Vital Statistics and after about nine months, Russell H Phipps' death certificate arrived. The social security number matched the one found on the application mentioned above.

Jean shared with me what she found on the death certificate. She discovered that his funeral was handled by Davis Funeral Home and he was buried at Whitehaven Cemetery in Lake County, Ohio. It also mentioned "Sharon Phipps," with no information on the relationship between Sharon and Russell. Was she a wife, daughter or daughter-in-law?

Again, she reminded me of the Russell Phipps in Hendersonville, North Carolina and again I applied my overly rational approach by reminding her of the unlikelihood of any connection.

This all transpired over the weekend of Labor Day, 2000. I called the funeral home and talked to an unenthusiastic person who pulled the record of Russell H. Phipps. I learned that he had a wife, Mildred, who had died in 1973. There was no obituary, but there was an address. I sent a letter with an enclosed return envelope to the "Current Resident" of that address, not expecting results and I received none.

I had no sooner hung up the phone when it dawned on me that I should have asked for him to pull the record of Mildred Phipps. I hesitated to call back. It was obvious that my informant was not excited about my interrogatories. However, I screwed up my courage and called back.

The record of Mildred Phipps produced more information. Her birth name was Wassum and she had two unmarried sisters from Pennsylvania and a brother in Seattle, Washington.

I immediately went to the Internet and found that Pennsylvania has many Wassum names in the phone directory. Instead of starting through that list, I decided to take a look at Seattle, Washington. I found one Wassum listed, Kenneth. Although, this was not the name of the brother, I decided to give this number a try. It was early afternoon here in Ohio and late morning in Seattle. I received an answering machine. I left my name and phone number and a brief story of our search. I asked him to call me collect at any time of the day or night.

I've sent out hundreds of letters with self-addressed stamped envelopes, thousands of emails and uncounted telephone calls. Less than 1% of these queries ever produce any response. I never expected to hear back from Kenneth Wassum, and, although I planned on calling him later, I never really expected anything from this.

I was sitting at my computer, chatting on line with Jean and reporting on my discoveries of the day when the phone rang. I answered and it was Kenneth Wassum. The excitement was incredible. I was trying to talk to Kenneth and typing with one hand to tell Jean that I had him on the phone. I just got out, "It's Kenneth."

Kenneth told me that Mildred WASSUM Phipps was his aunt and they had a son, Russell, who lived in Hendersonville, North Carolina.

As Kenneth and I, talked, Jean instant messaged me over and over, "What is going on? What did you find? Answer me! Answer me!" I had the phone in my left hand and taking notes on my conversation with right, but I managed to type back, "We found him! Hold on!" I knew she was dying down in Florida.

Kenneth filled in some details on the family. Sharon, whose name appeared on the death certificate, turned out to be Russell H's daughter-in-law, the son's wife, Russell W PHIPPS. I told Kenneth that this phone call had ended a mystery that had persisted in our family for 80 years resulting in a half-century of searching.

I ended the phone conversations and turned my attention back to Jean to tell her what I had discovered. I had the embarrassing task of telling her that the Russell W Phipps in North Carolina she had been telling me about over and over was indeed the son of Russell H.

So, how do we contact Russell William of Hendersonville, North Carolina? It was now very late at night and no time to call. As it turned out, I was free the next afternoon and worked in the evening. Jean had to work during the day and was free in the evening. We decided that I would make the call in the afternoon, and, if I couldn't get through, Jean would call in the evening. It was the luck of the draw that I made the first phone call to our newly found nephew, uncle and cousin.

I made the call and Russell W answered. I pondered how to introduce myself. Would he think I was some kind of nut or perhaps involved in some scam? I wondered how I would feel when someone called to tell me that I had family, indeed, family galore of which I had never heard. I simply said, "I believe that you and I are first cousins."

I was amazed at his willingness to listen to my story and the sketchy information he had matched much of the information I had. I told him that I had a photo of his father in his World War I uniform and it was soon in the mail. And, he told me that he raised racing pigeons.

I then informed him that he also had a half-sister with dozens of nieces and nephews. To make a long story somewhat shorter, we exchanged photos and information and I had this ready to share by the time of the Phipps Picnic in late September.

We have since exchanged family information, photographs and had some telephone conversations. As of this writing, none of us have met Russell nor his four children and growing number of grandchildren, but hope too soon.

Filling this missing gap in our family's history has been rewarding. I only regret that Uncle Arnold did not live to see this day.
